Due diligence processes for slavery and human trafficking

As part of our initiative to identify and mitigate risk we have in place and are further developing systems to:-

Identify and assess potential risk areas in our supply chains.

Protect whistle blowers.

Educate and train all employees, including the requirement to read and confirm their understanding of, and agreement to comply with, the Group's Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Policies.

Training

To ensure a high level of understanding of the risks of modern slavery and human trafficking in our supply chains and our business, we provide training to our staff.

Further steps

Following a review of the effectiveness of the steps we have taken in the year ended 31 March 2022 to ensure that there is no slavery or human trafficking in our supply chains we intend to take the following further steps to combat slavery and human trafficking:-

Continue to increase employee awareness, through training and education for existing employees and all newly recruited employees, as part of their induction.

Ensure all existing key suppliers are notified of our expectations and their obligations in relation to the Modern Slavery Act and applicable local legislation.

Incorporate appropriate anti-slavery and human trafficking obligation clauses into all new procurement and sub-contracting agreements.

For Group businesses that employ migrant workers, ensure they do not pay fees to secure work and any recruitment costs are paid by the employing company.

This statement is made pursuant to section 54(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and constitutes our Group's slavery and human trafficking statement for the financial year ending 31 March 2022.
